Teutons Enthusiastic Over Bombardment of Russian Port
By Turkish Warships; Russian Repulse Reported at Hands of the Austro-German Allies.

KAISER WILHELM DECLARES THAT HIS NATION IS CERTAIN TO WIN

By Associated Press
BERLIN via wireless Nov. 2.—The exploits of the Turkish fleet which bombarded Odessa and Schistopol and destroyed two Russian warships, 19 transports and several oil tanks excite unbounded enthusiasm here.

The progress of the fighting on the front in the north of France is recorded here as highly favorable. The report given out yesterday with its news that the French had been thrown back across the Marne at a point near Soissons and that the operations already had extended to the west front of Verdun is regarded as the most favorable issue for some time past.

Letters from the front returning Berlin describe the fighting between Neuport and Ypres as probably the fiercest of the whole war. The Germans noted their way southward by repeated night attacks. The toll of death was great on both sides.

By Associated Press

BERLIN via wireless Nov. 2.—In addressing the Brandenburg regiment in France recently at a point behind the front, Emperor William closed his speech with these words:

"When the war is finished we should see each other again. Under all circumstances the enemy will be beaten."

TURKEY WOULD GIVE UP
ON ANOTHER HOLD DAY—Turkish leaders have been told to give up the war.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Wise men here believe that Turkey will not give up the war until it has won a great victory in the Balkans. The Turks are now in a position to do this, but they are not yet prepared to do so.

Best Cough Medicine for Children.

"Three years ago when I was living in Pittsburgh one of my children had a bad cold and coughed dreadfully. Until the advice of a druggist I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it benefited him at once. I find it is the best cough medicine for children because it is pleasant to take. They do not object to taking it," writes Mrs. Lafayette Phillips, Union City, Pa. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotics, and it is good to a child as remedial as it is to an adult. ## A DEMOCRATIC CONFESSION.

Perhaps one of the most striking and at the same time the most silly attempts at Democratic logic in this campaign is contained in the statement, made in reply to the Republican argument that the first step toward firing up our 20,000 idle coke ovens is the election of the Republican ticket, that neither Penrose nor Hopwood can start a single coke oven because the next Congress will be Democratic, and consequently it is useless to elect them.

This is Democratic notice that if the next Congress is Democratic the idle coke ovens of the Connellsville region will not be started. Perhaps the Barefoot organs didn't mean it to be construed this way, but it admits of no other construction.

WHAT A STARTLING DEMOCRATIC CONFESSION!

The Democratic Congress, with the consent and by the direction of the Democratic President, wilfully and deliberately put the Connellsville coke ovens out of business by the injunction upon the industries of the country of its discredited Tariff policy. It is not likely that the Democrats will undo that work. To do so would be an open confession of error and incompetency.

That is why it is absolutely necessary to put the Republican party back in power. It is the only party that will restore the industrial policies which made the country prosperous beyond compare through sixteen years of wonderful expansion and progress.

Patriot Henry, the fiery patriot said: "There is but one lamp by which my feet are guided; and that, sir, is the lamp of experience." The lamp of experience shows that most of the coke ovens of the Connellsville region are LIGHTED UNDER REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION AND SMOKELESS UNDER DEMOCRATIC RULE.

A Democratic vote is a vote to PUT MORE COKE OVENS OUT; a Republican vote is a vote to FIRE MORE OVENS UP.

The Paramount issue could not be more clearly and tersely stated.

A BULL MOOSE BOMB.

The efforts to assail Senator Crow because of his action on the Workman's Compensation bill presented at the last Legislature having utterly failed, the Uniontown Record, Bull Moose and near-Democratic organ, this morning shoots off an eleven-inch bomb of large proportions, but very little real noise, and no damage whatever.

The Record, which by it is understood is controlled by Colonel William A. Stone, a merchant coke operator of the Connellsville region and a member of the Coke Producers' Association, declares that $135,000 was spent by that Association to defeat the Workmen's Compensation bill.

Who got this money and who paid it over?

The Record is careful NOT TO CHARGE THAT SENATOR CROW RECEIVED THIS MONEY, OR WAS COGNIZANT OF ITS HAVING BEEN PAID, but it charges that he killed the bill, and insinuates that he must have known. It is safe to characterize of the scoundrel to think everybody else is crooked. The Record had better confine itself to the facts. WHO WAS BRIBED AND WHO BRIBED THEM?

Publisher Stone has several times been invited to tell his story, but he has always balked and rambled and insinuated. The hands of Senator Crow are clean. LET HIS ACCUSERS LOOK TO THEIR OWN.

THE MENDACIOUS MUCKRAKERS.

The babbling Barefoot organs of Fayette county have been printing a slogan for weeks past something like this:

"A vote for Democracy is a vote for decency. A vote for Republicanism is a vote for Penrose and Crow and all that is vile, all that is corrupt, all that is degrading, all that is crooked in Pennsylvania."

A baser libel was perhaps never printed, and the pity of it is that it has been iterated so often that some innocent people are actually beginning to take it seriously.

The Republican organization is quite as decent and respectable and law-abiding as either the Democratic organization backed by Vance McCormick's bar'l and the proceeds of Federal officeholders' assessments, or the Washington party organization backed by Bill Flint's bar'l and G. Pinchot's $500,000 legacy.

A vote for the Republican ticket, including a vote for Penrose and Crow, is a vote the only party capable of restoring prosperity and happiness to the people.

In this campaign the vile and corrupt and degrading pollies have been confined to the muck-raking and mendacious opposition.

RECKLESS TEDDY.

Colonel Roosevelt has been very reckless in his statements about Pennsylvanians, principally because he fathered some very doubtful information.

This is the same Roosevelt who sued a Michigan editor for libel because the editor said the Colonel got slightly illuminated on occasions. The Colonel has said lots of worse things about Pennsylvania candidates which are just as untruthful as the statement of the backwoods editor which ruffled the feelings of the Colonel so mightily.

In a political campaign, orators and organs assume a certain license in criticizing the opposition, and persons prominent in politics exhibit their good sense as a rule by paying no heed to such abuse, which customarily does them more good than harm, especially if it is persisted in and carried beyond the bounds of decency as has been done in Fayette county.

The Connellsville News says about this time last year H. M. Kephart was trying to persuade Connellsville citizens to vote against Fred Kertz. Nobody worked harder for the whole Republican municipal ticket last year than Kephart. This was the same election at which some Connellsville Democrats gave Mayor Marietta the double-cross.

The Barefoot organs announce that they don't want any negroes to support the Democratic ticket in Fayette county. It is not likely that many of them will.

Chairman Sterling refuses to make any political predictions. In answer to an inquiry, he is reported as saying, "I'm working, not talking." A truly Delphic utterance. It insinuates confidence, but leaves nothing to take back in case of defeat. Bruce is climbing down as carefully as he can.

"It's a shameful campaign," says the payroll editors of the Barefoot press. It is; and the Barefoot organs have made it so. Shameful is a shameful does.

One of the claims for Vance McCormick is that he is "pledged to a civil service." The platform pledges of Democratic candidates are understood to be campaign jokers. President Wilson set the example by ignoring the Baltimore platform, and there is anything the Democratic party has been cordially and consistently and deathlessly opposed to it is a civil service law which interferes with the freedom of spoils-grabbing.

The eleven-hour emards are dropping, but up to date the Republican losses have all been gains.

The Uniontown Record takes four columns to tell what it knows about an alleged $155,000 Coke Producers slush fund, and then it doesn't tell, perhaps it was just a Bull Moose.

The Uniontown Daily Standard has been telling us Who's Who in Brownsville. Wait until the returns come in, and we'll see Who's Who.

Democrats are making much ado over the fact that Penrose opposed the election of United States Senators by popular vote, but that was no crime, and so far as Penrose is concerned it does not seem to have made any difference in his political fortunes. He was nominated by an overwhelming majority and will soon be elected by the same kind of a plurality.

President Hiltner ought to appoint negroes over the Barefoot organs. The have lost more votes than they ever made.

President Hobson, the Peerless Purser, is still trying the Connellsville election cases in the columns of his personal organ, the Connellsville News. The worthy counselor has been in politics so long and hard that he has probably overlooked his old friend, the Adjudicator.

After the election Pinchot's Pike county residence will probably be for sale on easy terms.

The Democratic administration would have the people think it is progressive, but the South is in the mud again, and the Barefoot organs of Fayette county are already trying to revive and promote Copperhead sentiment. Their action has driven a great many voters back to the party of Lincoln.

Point Marion has another raffraught connection without the aid or consent of the Buckhannan & Northern.

The political romancing of the Uniontown New Freed Standard turns all the water from Pennsylvania into Ocean Liners white over. It is not true, of course, and it would have no connection with this campaign if it were true. The issue this year is the recovery of the Union Liner.

Fate October was foul with political shadings, but the November reconstituting is due.

When it was a reputable organ, the Uniontown Standard was conservative and respectable. Since it has become Democratic and degenerate it looks and sounds every day more and more like the Pittsburg Leader.

Even the society editors of the Barefoot organs are compelled to write political yarns just now.

Even the bare bums are reported to be short of work.

In Allegheny county the courts are making examples of reckless jury riders. There's room for legal discipline in Fayette county.

The Pacific Coast is already feeling the beneficial trade effects of the Panama Canal, in spite of the war in Europe and the Democratic war in Pennsylvania.

Judge Gray is still hopeful of the coal trade, but he points out that it is in a bad state, and is getting worse instead of better. Perhaps the judge's hopes are based upon the return of Republican administration, beginning with the shift and buckler of a Republican Congress.

The Bible Conference teachers will not arrive in Connellsville until after the election. It is perhaps just as well. They might be dragged into politics if they came sooner.

"It's a shameful campaign," says the payroll editors of the Barefoot press. It is, and the Barefoot organs have made it so. Shameful is as shameful does.

Coca Hollow and Cocaine are as far removed from the real issues of this election as Bob Wurman is from the Presidency. This is not an estimate; it is an accurate measurement.

Vote the Republican ticket and free the Connellsville coke region from the blight of 20,000 idle coke ovens.

The appearance of mine explosions west and south emphasizes the importance of the established rule of the Connellsville election. Safety First. Remember that Safety First takes no needless chances.

If the Democrats would change their tactics and tell the truth they perhaps wouldn't gain anything, but they might put up a stop-loss.

The New Freed means freedom from work and likewise from wages.

In the light of the fact that the Washington party has no organization throughout the state, its claims for Pinchot are exuberant rather than mathematical.

No bigglement, bullockizing, blaruphism, name-tagging, blatherskite ever made a vote, or ever will.

Some of the election estimates are palpable railheads.

A campaign attack sprung at the last moment is usually too weak to stand alone.

What should Pennsylvania elect this week in an effort to make a good showing against Greensburg? The New York man to represent her in the United States Senate? Pinchot's candidacy is preposterous.

Detailed report of the coke trade for the week ending Saturday, November 3, shows a total of 17,673 ovens in the region, 14,024 of which are in blast, and 3,559 are idle, with an estimated production of 139,583 tons.

Shipments for the week aggregated 7,417 cars, consigned as follows: To Pittsburgh, 3,342 cars; to points West, 2,750; to points East, 1,335 cars.

The week's coke trade took a little slump, but new orders are expected and a boom will probably follow.

The results of the November election show a Republican landslide all over the country. D. H. Hastings is chosen governor by a plurality of 234,000.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1904.

Installed totals of the coke trade for the week ending Saturday, October 29, shows a total of 23,320 ovens in the region, of which 16,207 are active and 7,122 are idle, with an estimated production of 196,180 tons.

Shipments for the week aggregated 10,557 cars, consigned as follows: To points west of Pittsburgh, 5,617 cars; to Pittsburgh, 3,602 cars; to points east, 1,538 cars. This was a gain of nearly 200 cars over the shipments of last week.

Demand for coke is good and the prospects are that the production will go over the 200,000 ton mark $2,000 more.

A coke drawing machine is tested at the Continental plant. It pulls one oven in nine minutes with poor power. It is claimed to be capable of pulling four ovens an hour.

High School to Clash at Greensburg Next Friday.

Principal B. H. Smith of the high school completed arrangements Saturday afternoon to have the football game between Greensburg and Connellsville, scheduled for Greensburg next Saturday afternoon, played on Friday.

The annual scrap between the Union and Pitsburgh and Washington & Jefferson takes place at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, on Saturday afternoon, and as many players on both high school teams and their supporters would like to go down for this game, it was deemed best to advance the high school contest.

Connellsville will work hard this week in an effort to make a good showing against Greensburg. The team has shown that it can play good football and Friday will be a good time to produce that brand.

The Issues of the Day.

By GEORGE FITCH.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1894.

In another day the off-year election will sweep over an otherwise remissible happy land, and 10,000,000 citizens will be scrabbling their ears thoughtfully for a familiar name on the ballot, unfurled like a hotel blanket before them.

What is going to puzzle the earnest voter tomorrow is the question of issues. It is necessary in order to put on a successful election to have plenty of issues, and never have the burning issues of the day been so completely overlooked as they have this year.

Is the high cost of living caused by the fact that Germany failed to answer the last note of Fort Grey, and in that case will a Pukuk movement by General Joffre result in the uncertainities of Poland?

This is a cause which has been discussed with great heat and vigor for three months. But the voter will not find it on the ballot tomorrow.

IMPORTANT WORK OF LAST CONGRESS

Radical Changes In Existing Laws Marked Two Sessions.

THE DEMOCRATS IN CONTROL

New Tariff Act of Greatest Moment. Currency Law First Comprehensive Measure Passed in Fifty Years—Free Canal Tolls Came Near Causing Majority to Break—Miscellaneous Measures of General Interest.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.
"We have enacted more important legislation than any congress which has assembled in years."

That was a remark made by Hon. Oscar W. Underwood, chairman of the ways and means committee and majority leader of the house of representatives, as the second session of the Sixty-third congress was about to close.

In a letter to Mr. Underwood, dated Oct. 17, President Wilson said,

"I cannot let this session of congress close without expressing my warm admiration for the fidelity and intelligence with which the program outlined in April and December of last year had been carried out and my feeling that the people of the country have been served by the members of this congress as they have seldom, if ever, done. Long and earnestly the contest waded, and much ill feeling was displayed.

In spite of the opposition of leading Democrats, such as Speaker Champ Clark and Majority Leader Underwood, the repeal bill was passed, enough Republicans in both houses coming to the aid of the president to insure a majority.

What might have been the most important measure of the entire congress was a short joint resolution authorizing the president to make war on Mexico. Under the terms of that resolution the president was given practically a free hand and no further action by congress, which is charged with the responsibility of declaring war, was necessary to begin war against Mexico. The outcome of this, however, is well known.

Trust Law and Trade Commission.

Two of the three proposed bills dealing with corporations became laws.

The bill giving the government supervision over railway capitalization was passed by the house, but was not passed in the senate. The most important of the measures was the Clayton act, over which there was a long wrangle in the senate before it was passed and when it came back from conference. This law is expected to supplement the Sherman act, although many differences of opinion have been expressed concerning its effect. One of the most important provisions is expected to exempt labor unions from the operations of the anti-trust laws.

The other act provides for a trade commission which is expected to supervise industrial corporations in a manner similar to that with which the interstate commerce commission exerts over railroads, although the trade commission does not have as much power.

To a great extent it is an investigating commission, and the president or either house of congress may direct it to investigate any alleged violation of the anti-trust laws. Its duties are similar in this respect to the bureau of competition over railroads.

Another law in the interest of rural communities provided a commission to consider the subject of national aid for vocational education.

An act in the interest of cotton growers was passed, which places a tax on the sales of cotton for future delivery. It is intended to prevent speculation and the manipulation of the price of cotton.

European War Legislation.

Several measures have been passed which were necessary on account of the great war in Europe. One of these provided for the American registry of foreign built ships. Many foreign ships were rendered useless on account of the war, and it has been expected that they will be transferred to American registry under the new law and even American products abroad.

Another law passed on account of the war established a war risk bureau in the treasury department and appropriated $5,000,000 to pay insurance on American cargoes sent to foreign ports.

Several other measures of an emergency character were proposed, one of which appropriated $30,000,000 to buy ships.

Another was the proposition to purchase cotton which could not find a market in foreign countries.

Army and Navy Legislation.

On account of the threatened war with Mexico a law was passed providing for raising volunteer forces of the United States. The law can be invoked only in case of war and threatened war, and when Congress must authorize the president to act before he can proceed under it.

The war department, however, in case of possible war could put the machinery in motion so that when Congress gave permission men could be enlisted, officers selected and preliminary work of organization could be under way. The bill is important from the fact that it affords an opportunity for the United States to secure volunteers before the militia organizations of the different states are called out.

Another measure, more effective at the present time, is the law organizing an aviation force in the signal corps, providing more pay for officers and men and authorizing a larger number of officers and men for this dangerous though important duty.

Two Battleship Policy.

The most important legislation relating to the navy was the resumption of the policy of constructing two battleships each year. This was supplemented by the sale of the Idaho and Mississippi to Greece. The proceeds of the sale were used to construct another battleship of the Dreadnaught type, ranking three large ships, upon which work begins this year.

A law was passed to promote the efficiency of the naval militia. It is intended to encourage the organization of naval militia in different states and provide ships for training off-shore and men for sea service.

For the Benefit of Agriculture.

One of the important measures passed by the present congress provided for co-operative agricultural extension.

America's Christmas Ship, Jason, Sails November 15 With Gifts for Children of Europe Rendered Fatherless by War

work by the agricultural colleges of the several states and the general government. Through the department of agriculture, the government will expend yearly $4,500,000 in the different states. The distribution of the money is based upon the rural population. The money is to be expended in giving instruction and practical demonstrations in agricultural and home economics to persons who do not attend agricultural colleges. The instruction is to be for those farmers who do not and cannot attend the agricultural colleges.

Another law in the interest of rural communities provided a commission to consider the subject of national aid for vocational education.

An act in the interest of cotton growers was passed, which places a tax on the sales of cotton for future delivery. It is intended to prevent speculation and the manipulation of the price of cotton.

A law was passed extending the period of payment on reclamation projects in the western states. The extension will enable the locators to get their irrigated lands under cultivation before the payments fall due. Another law was passed which allows a son and homestead entry on desert lands.

Alaska Legislation.

Alaska occupied a great deal of time during the last session of congress, and one of the bills passed may be far-reaching in its effect upon the whole country. It provides for the expenditure of $36,000,000 for the construction of railroads in Alaska, the roads when completed to be operated by the government or leased. This is the first time that congress has directly taken an alternative action in favor of government construction and ownership of railroads.

While it was emphatically asserted by men who supported the bill that they would not vote for any measure to provide for construction of railroads in the United States and that conditions in Alaska made this an exceptional case, yet the present war established which may be used with effect when sentiment in favor of government ownership becomes stronger.

Another Alaska act of great importance because of the effect it will have upon legislation relating to the public domain provided for leasing coal lands in that territory. It establishes the leasing system of public lands, and, while the bill passed related only to Alaska and to coal lands, the debates showed conclusively that it is the intention to extend the leasing system to other public lands in the United States.

The Alaska leasing law is in line with demands of conservationists, and it is expected to be followed by similar legislation for other public lands.

In fact, the house passed a number of conservation bills which were not taken up in the senate.

Miscellaneous Measures.

A law was passed to promote mediation, conciliation and arbitration between railroads and their employees. It establishes a commission to investigate labor troubles and to act as intermediaries in the settlement of disputes and disagreements between employers and employees.

The Philippines bill, giving the Filipinos a larger share in their government and promising more in the future, which recently passed the house is not likely to pass the senate next session, as it will be debated at length and with more determined opposition than in the house.

The La Follette seaman's bill is one measure which passed the senate and has been hung up in the house for a long time. It has been materially amended in committee and in going over to the short session is likely to fail.

The rural credits bill has been promised consideration during the short session, but as it has not been reported from any committee not received consideration in either house it is not likely to be passed next winter.

The house passed a bill regulating railway mail pay, but it has not been reported from the senate committee. An effort will be made to have it considered when the senate meets in December.

Emergency Revenue Act.

The Sixty-third congress began with revenue legislation. The first session was called to revise the tariff, and the second ended with the enactment of a law to raise $100,000,000 additional revenue by an emergency measure. It was entitled a war revenue act on account of the European war causing a falling off in imports. The Republicans, however, asserted that the loss of revenue caused by the war was comparatively small and that the tariff law would have created a deficit. A large part of the money to be raised by the emergency act will come from increased taxes on whisky, beer, wines and tobacco. In addition many of the taxes imposed by the Spanish war revenue act of 1898 have been imposed including most of the stamp taxes.

The first revenue act, like the first, provoked a great deal of partisan debate, the Republicans taking occasion to criticize the former tariff bill for failing to produce sufficient revenue and also condemning the extravagance of the party in power. The Democrats defended their tariff bill, asserting that it looked for and extraordinary conditions in Europe caused the falling off in revenues and that previous Republican legislation made large appropriations by the present congress necessary.

Another Alaska act of great importance because of the effect it will have upon legislation relating to the public domain provided for leasing coal lands in that territory. It establishes the leasing system of public lands, and, while the bill passed related only to Alaska and to coal lands, the debates showed conclusively that it is the intention to extend the leasing system to other public lands in the United States.

The Alaska leasing law is in line with demands of conservationists, and it is expected to be followed by similar legislation for other public lands.

last winter.

It has been on the senate calendar for many months, but has never been taken up. It is one of the important bills which may be passed during the short session.

The Philippines bill, giving the Filipinos a larger share in their government and promising more in the future, which recently passed the house is not likely to pass the senate next session, as it will be debated at length and with more determined opposition than in the house.

The La Follette seaman's bill is one measure which passed the senate and has been hung up in the house for a long time. It has been materially amended in committee and in going over to the short session is likely to fail.

The rural credits bill has been promised consideration during the short session, but as it has not been reported from any committee not received consideration in either house it is not likely to be passed next winter.

The house passed a bill regulating railway mail pay, but it has not been reported from the senate committee.

An effort will be made to have it considered when the senate meets in December.

Little Chance For Good Roads Bill.

The good roads bill appropriating

$25,000,000 annually for roads through the country was amended by the Senate committee to provide for the issuing of $500,000,000 bond to raise that amount of money to be expended in a period of five years, the states using the money to deposit their securities for the repayment of the principal and interest in the next fifty years. That bill is also likely to be lost.

Owing to the short time that congress will be in session before the term expires by limitation on March 4, 1915,

it will be almost impossible to pass any measure which is vigorously contested and which may lead to a filibuster. This is particularly true if an effort is made to pass all the appropriate bills in order to prevent an extra session of the Sixty-fourth congress.

Too Regular.

Not long ago a worthy woman of an town who had lost three husbands coyly admitted her intention to marry fourth.

"Congratulations, Mary, congratulations!" cried a friend one day as she burst upon the prospective bride.

The latter sighed. "Oh, the weddings are all very well," said she, "but what I do object to are the funerals."

—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Plain Hint.

"Why don't you ask that nice girl to marry you?"

"I wouldn't stand a chance. She keeps telling me that she has two adorners and can't choose between them."

"What stronger hint do you want you dummy?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Bills Which Go Over.

There are quite a number of important bills pending which have been passed by the house, but have not been considered by the senate. In addition to the conservation bills and the railroad bill heretofore mentioned there is the immigration bill, containing the lit-terary test. This is considered an important measure and passed the house

United States.

tomobile very high?"

And now I will leave out my account of the events of the next sixteen hours which we spent in the staff and pick up the thread of this latter drama with Stafford knowing at the door of the Jorgensens cabin on Little Island. We had found them after dark.

"Joe, I stood back while Stafford faced the door. It was thrown open, and a big gingerbread boy came down, and a business."

"I just called around to take care of my taxes," said Stafford.

"What taxes?"

"The blacks and silvers you stole."

"Put it on," said Stafford.

"Ten days ago you and your wife having decided to move to Valley went to Philadelphia. You were there eight days, during which time you cleaned out every animal I owned on it. I know you didn't kill them though you tried to make me believe you had by having the skinned carcasses of a lot of foxes. Three days ago you left to Island."

As he spoke I saw the wicked urge of a woman squeezing out under the big Swede's elbow. She had a narrow face with blushing malediction that she fled on Stafford.

"Not yet?" asked Jorgenson.

"Then you never leave! I think and married my man Alton Sam who was in the roll with you."

The big Swede had led up a rifle by the door and stepped out.

"Get out of here," he cried, "or I'll shoot on catching sight of you and myself."

"I'll go if you wish it," said Stafford bluntly, "but if I do it'll be to return with the police."

"And I do hate Mr. Dutcheman back in his place. If it comes to that you'll get paid away for a life in years rest, sure!"

What are you?" I bowed. Jorgenson.

"He's the man that told me your wife was away and spilt the water from the tap. He's the man that I got him and his brother at my place to be sure. He's the man that covered up my brother, who is about Sam a bit on Dutcheman's side. I'm glad he's in with him. He's the man I owe it to."

"Me also," said Jorgenson venomously. "He's the man I'm asking for."

"Stafford, tell him you're ready. I'm not ready for a settlement—and two or three of your wife's interests—that's all I'll do."

"Ant if I say no?"

"You won't. Where's my foxes?"

Jorgenson hesitated but clearly there could be only one decision in the circumstances. I had them in my ken, he answered.

"We're inured," cried Stafford in disgust.

"Yes."

"You can't grow a decent putt in a cage," snorted Stafford, with the stiffness of a fanatic mounted upon his hobby. "You must let him live like their natural life as near as possible or those dear sisters. The picturesqueness of their life affected—"

"Poor! I had read of all that in the book," said a Selection of Color Lovers."

You put in Joe, "you read a good bit while you were at Mr. Stafford's house."

Jorgenson raised startled eyes. "You see me?"

"No."

"How you know that?"

"Joe laughed. "I guess the spider must 've told me," said he.

CHAPTER XIII.

Linda Petersham

NOVEMBER JOE had hidden me far up at the little siding known in the picturesque name of Silent Water.

"Speed you'll be back again," Mr. Quantrell as soon as we'd fixed them new mining interests and then may be we'll try a wolf hunt. There's a tall pack comes out on the Lac Noir, le when it's moonlight."

Put the shucks of business are not so easily shaken off, at the spring had already come before another visit to the woods had begun, to increase into possibility. About this time Linda Petersham came up on the telephone and demanded my presence at her home.

"But I am engaged," said I. "What is it?"

"I will tell you when you come. I will."

I made an effort to explain, but I had said her last word and rang off. I smiled as I called set on going than ever. You know father when he's dealing with men. And no perils in his opinion that the letter is probably only bluff."

I considered for a little before I spoke. "Linda, have you really sent for me to try to persuade your father that it would be wiser for him not to go to Kalmack?"

Linda's lip curled scornfully. "I shouldn't put it just like that," I can imagine father's answer if you old I'm afraid it will be no good letting you say anything you don't know how."

"You mean the letter, no?"

"She sniffling at me and I instantly forgave her. "Well, perhaps I did not know it is far better to be able to give help than just to talk about it. Father is determined on going to Kalmack, and I want you to come with us."

"Us?" I cried.

"'Naturally, I am going."

"But it is absurd! Your father would never allow it!"

"He can't prevent it, dear James," she said softly. "I don't for a moment suppose that even the Indians would attack a woman. And father is all that I have in the world. I am going."

"Then I suppose I shall have to go too. But tell me what purpose does your father think he will serve by undertaking this very big expedition?"

"He believes that the general chief and the shooting of the warlike as well as the writing of the words in the wall of a small band of individuals who wish to blackmail him. We will be quite a strong party and he hopes to discover who is threatening him. By the way didn't I hear from Mr. Andrew McFarland that you had been in the woods all these last days with a wonderful guide who could read trails like Ute's the last of the Delaware, or one of those old trappers who leads in Peninsular Cooper's novels?"

"That's true."

"What is his name?"

"November Joe," she repeated. "I visualize him at once. A wiry looking old man with grey goatee and piercing eyes."

"I burst out laughing. "It's extraordinary you should like him off so well!"

"He must come too," she com mended.

"I thought I could but I didn't."

"How is that?"

"Well, he is set on going back to Kalmack."

"Kalmack? I know it is the place John is either built up in the moonlight. He used to go shooting and fishing."

"I suppose that's all he wants to do."

Into the story of our journey to Kalmack I need not go but will pass up the sequence of events at the moment of our arrival at that intercepting point when Linda looking from the car window suddenly exclaimed

"Look at that magnificent young man!"

"Which one?" I asked innocently as I caught sight of November's tall figure.

"It's him!" she cried. "It's the place John is either built up in the moonlight. He used to go shooting and fishing."

"I suppose that's all he wants to do."

Before I could answer she had jumped lightly to the platform and turned to Jim with a childlike expression in her blue eyes.

"Oh, Jim, tell me how many minutes this train stops here!"

"It doesn't stop here at all but they slowed her because they're expecting passengers. Can I help you any, Jim?"

"It's very kind of you."

Before I could answer she had jumped lightly to the platform and turned to Jim with a childlike expression in her blue eyes.

"Oh, Jim, tell me how many minutes this train stops here!"

"It doesn't stop here at all but they slowed her because they're expecting passengers. Can I help you any, Jim?"

"It's very kind of you."

At this moment I appeared from the rear. Hello, Joe," said I. "How are you?"

"I'm fine, thank you. I must speak to him."

"I suppose you had jump light to the platform and turned to Jim with a childlike expression in her blue eyes."

"It's him!" she cried. "It's the place John is either built up in the moonlight. He used to go shooting and fishing."

"I suppose that's all he wants to do."

High School Able to Gain at Will by Constant Battering at Monessen's Line; Greensburg Game to be Played on Friday Instead of Saturday.

By steadily ramming at their opponents' line, Connellsville scored six touchdowns and kicked four goals against Monessen at Fayette Field, Saturday, winning by the score of 40 to 7. The visitors' only score was made by McKinley, who intercepted one of Connellsville's few forward passes and ran 65 yards for a touchdown. He also kicked a goal.

Monessen was unable to gain at any stage of the game and their line never got beyond near the end of the first half when with the ball within one foot of the goal line, Connellsville was unable to take it over. By mighty rushes Connellsville had pushed the ball over, put a penalty brought it back to the five yard line and Monessen held like a concrete wall and what seemed a sure more was lost.

Walter Haery, who directed the game at quarter, gave out Coach Springer's instructions and used the players' names. There is no book of rules. They were inevitable because Smith's烟 (Tuxedo) and Delighty rolling through for from 10 to 15 yards each time. Delighty's runs were just as sensational as usual, but Smith's line form was jolted through the line twice and thus as far as good gains. Members who started at halfback, was replaced by McLean, and he made splendid showing.

CConnellsville worked two forward passes successfully and one was the means of Monessen's last score. The second, in the air, McLean grabbed the ball and spirited it into the goal posts. Delighty, who had been taken out in the second half, might have been able to catch him, but he outdistanced all of the other local players and scored.

Substitutions were made whenever in the first quarter by Coach Springer all of the second string men getting into the game. Clarence O'Donnovan, a regular end last year, played in his old position at left end for about four minutes. He is eligible to play in the remaining games.

Captain Keay had a splendid game and Captain Miller also had a piping right guard showed up well.

The Greensburg game has been advanced from Saturday to Friday of next week. A big delegation will accompany the team.

HIGH SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT COURSE BEGINS ON FRIDAY

Exceptionally Good Program Has Been Booked This Season; the Cathedral Choir First.

On next Friday evening, November 6, the annual entertainment course under the auspices of the Connellsville High School will open in the Colonial Theatre, having for the opening number the Cathedral Choir, considered probably the finest musical company on the Eastern platform. This company consists of eight members, all of whom are singers of the highest quality, having trained under famous teachers both here and abroad. Their work includes a number of short modern oratorios by such composers as Buck, Steiner and Schenck, one of which is rendered at each performance. The program also includes a number of old hymns, beautiful solos, duets, quartets and choruses closing with a grand finale.

The course this year includes two other musical programs. The Kelley-Hallinan Singing Party and Walter Becker and the College Girls. The latter will come to Connellsville on November 27. The company consists of four talented young ladies who have sustained concerts of musical sketches and songs with action, and Walter Becker in his monologues, humorous songs, impersonations and dramatic recitals. The Kelley-Hallinan Singing Party, will appear on December 2, one of the strongest attractions in the local world today, both members of this company have done work in church choirs and also theatrical work before entering the lyceum. Their entertainment promises to be one of the best on the course this year.

Of the three speakers on the course, Ralph Bingham and Strickland W. Gilliland, need no introduction to Connellsville audiences having appeared here in former years. They will speak to the Lyceum audience on Sunday with their drawing cards for the course. Mr. Gilliland in his humorous lectures has been heard all over the country, his lectures always conveying a message worth while. Mr. Bingham's humorous entertainments have never failed to win his audience. He is considered probably the best orator in the country.

Tuxedo—the Most Enjoyable and the Most Healthful Smoke

THE most enjoyable smoke is a pipe. But many men deny themselves this pleasure because they have had unhappy experiences with pipe tobaccos.

Likely you have paid 35 cents to 50 cents for a tin of "fancy mixture," and it burned your mouth or throat, or was unpleasantly strong.

Too bad—but you got the wrong tobacco. The hundreds of thousands of men who have tried

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

have found the answer to their smoke problems. Tuxedo is the mildest tobacco made. It cannot bite the tongue or dry the throat.

And it's economical. There are 40 pipefuls in a ten-cent tin. You can't get any better tobacco because nothing better grows than the mellow, perfectly aged Burley leaf used in Tuxedo.

If you try Tuxedo for a month and cut out other smokes, you will not only have had the best month of smoking you have ever had in your life, but you will have made a mighty big saving in your pocket-money!
